FASHION FANCIES.

Jumbo gray is the latest shade of that color.

The capote of medium size is the bonnet of full dress.

The fashion for loquets, worn now quite under the chin, has become a mania.

Shrimp pink cashmere, with a copper moire vest and sash, makes a charming toilet for afternoon receptions.

Mourning is going out of fashion in England. A widow's is the only bereavement that it is now fashionable to symbolize.

The terra cotta glove has proven a success, notwithstanding its startling color; and it is now sold by houses that condemned it when it was first introduced.

Dresses without waists, the skirts attached to the yokes or bands around the shoulders, are very popular summer garments for little girls under ten years of age.

Heavy laces are more in demand than light ones. They invite the embroidery now so fashionable, and are frequently combined with it in dress garniture.

A large, loose sagging puff is more fashionable for the bottom of dress skirts than plaited or shirred flounces. One very narrow plaiting is used however, to support the puff.

The pretty fashion among young ladies, of wearing two little curls in the coiffure behind each ear, dropping upon the neck, is still quite popular. It is very becoming to some faces.

Dress skirts are wider, measuring two and two and one-half yards around the bottom, but the draperies are very bouffant, and crinoline and stiff muslin are placed under them over the skirt.

Terra cotta and rose are the new shades offered this season in hosiery for ladies and children. Solid colors are preferred for general wear, with very light clocking or leaf embroidery up each side.

Muslin round hats for country wear are made of polka-dotted white and ecru muslin; the trimmings are fancy muslin handkerchiefs and artificial daisies, butter-cups and white and pink Scotch roses.

Worth's black dresses are combinations of two or three fabrics, and have often a color introduced. One special novelty is a black green-ant made over white moire and trimmed with Spanish lace and moire ribbon.

Veils are now longer than the old scarf of lace, which covers the eyes—to their injury—leaving exposed the mouth and chin, generally the

MRS. LINCOLN'S AMBITION.

Her Early Determination to Become the Wife of the President of the United States.

[Philadelphia Times.]

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, July 17.—Although Mrs. Lincoln's illness was not known here, her name was mentioned in a pleasant parlor conversation between ladies one evening last week and some interesting reminiscences of her were given by Mrs. William Preston, of Lexington, Ky., who when a young girl, Miss Wickliff, was well acquainted with Mary Todd, for both were then living in Lexington. Mrs. Preston said that Miss Todd had always insisted when quite a young girl that her husband would be President of the United States, and as she did not then appear to be one who would attract the attention of young men, not being as handsome as most of her companions, many of the latter would laugh at her prediction. While she was still young she got into a girlish pet with her family and announced that she was going away to make her home with her sister, Mrs. Edwards, in Springfield, Ill., and declared that she would yet be the wife of the President of the United States and triumph over those who had opposed her.

She went and was courted by both Stephen A. Douglas and Abraham Lincoln, and accepted the latter. After becoming engaged to him she wrote to her friend Miss Wickliff a playful description of the man of her choice, mentioning his unprepossessing appearance and awkwardness, and with a merry appreciation of the humor of the prediction again said: "But I mean to make him President of the United States all the same. You will see that, as I always told you, I will yet be the President's wife."

Years afterwards, in fact not more than ten or twelve years ago, in looking over the papers of his father-in-law, Gov. Wickliff, who had just died, Gen. Preston came across a letter indorsed in Gov. Wickliff's handwriting, "the most remarkable letter ever written by one girl to another." This proved to be the identical letter written by Mary Todd in regard to her betrothed—Abraham Lincoln. When Gen. Preston showed it to his wife she said she supposed that after reading it she had thrown it carelessly down on her father's desk, attaching no importance to it, but he, picking it up, was so impressed by it that he indorsed it, as quoted above and laid it away among his papers, to be found after the girlish prophecy had been fulfilled.

Mrs. Lincoln's talent for match-making did not end with herself, for it was she who picked out Mary Harlan, the daughter of the Senator from Iowa, for her son Robert, and seeing her one evening at the opera, remarked: "I should like Robert to marry just such a girl as that." Her husband, who heard her say it, then

No Whiskey!

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS is one of the very few tonic medicines that are not composed mostly of alcohol or whiskey, thus becoming a fruitful source of intemperance by promoting a desire for rum.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS is guaranteed to be a non-intoxicating stimulant, and it will, in nearly every case, take the place of all liquor, and at the same time absolutely kill the desire for whiskey and other intoxicating beverages.

Rev. G. W. RICE, editor of the American Christian Review, says of Brown's Iron Bitters:

Cin., O., Nov. 16, 1881.
Gents:—The foolish wasting of vital force in business, pleasure, and vicious indulgence of our people, makes your preparation a necessity; and if applied, will save hundreds who resort to saloons for temporary recuperation.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS has been thoroughly tested for dyspepsia, indigestion, biliousness, weakness, debility, overwork, rheumatism, neuralgia, consumption, liver complaints, kidney troubles, &c., and it never fails to render speedy and permanent relief.

Oxford, Pa., Oct. 3d, 1881.
Willmarth & Co.—Gentlemen: I have got the Sewing Machine at last, and feel very much pleased with it. I sewed up a quilt lining—it sewed splendidly. I tried the hemmer. I think the improvement in winding the bobbin a great one, indeed. I like it much better than the old machine on the Singer.
I have been operating my machine for over nine years. I think there is no other machine in the world as good as it. I certainly have a splendid machine.
